ORCHIDS
SIGNAL MOUNTAIN, TENNESSEE

Plants in this group each have individual personalities. There is little likelihood of an exact duplicate of your purchase turning up in a neighboring orchid collection. Nature has diversified yellow orchids so that each is different from other seedlings in the same cross. To select the colors for your own collection you are fortunate to be able to buy mature plants whose colors have been accurately described.

These plants are now, or will soon be, ready for repotting. For this reason, many are priced lower than market value. Prices reflect the cultural condition of the plant, with consideration for the quality and appearance of the bloom.

The most magnificent color range in the Cattleya family begins with light cream and ivory, deepens into yellow-orange, and reaches its full glory in bronze and gold. You will bask in the reflected brilliance of these flowers when they become the center of your collection.

R-1045 (Lc. Caprice x C. Dowiana) x Blc. Morning Sun, var. Antique

The (Lc. Caprice x C. Dowiana) parent produces long, tapering petals of good proportion and heavy substance,  $1\frac{3}{4}$ " in width and 7" in spread. Its lip is of contrasting Doge purple, ruffled, with narrow margin of light lavender. Clear yellow eyes and veining mark the throat.

The Mimosa yellow sepals and petals of the Blc. Morning Sun are of very good form and very heavy texture, measuring  $2\frac{5}{8}$ " x  $5\frac{1}{2}$ ". Its large lip of Doge purple is heavily ruffled and fringed with lemon yellow in the throat. Bloom record of this plant has been very good.

A handsome spring pastel is expected.

1  $\frac{3}{4}$ " pot - \$2.50 each

2  $\frac{1}{2}$ " pot - \$6.00 each

R-1484 (Blc. Consul Greig x C. Hentschellii, Good Variety)

The golden-Chinese yellow petals of the Blc. Consul Greig parent are of A-1 form, texture and coloring, measuring 6" in spread. The lip is tipped with a large area of Lilac purple, slightly ruffled; in the throat is slight gold veining.

Hentschellii bears large petals and sepals of medium rose coloring, very good in form and substance. Its dark rose ruffled lip and golden eyes and veining in the throat make striking contrast in this flower. Bloom record is good, and this plant has been used as parent in two other crosses.

A bronze-plum-unusual colored flower is expected for June and July.

2  $\frac{1}{2}$ " pot - \$6.00 each

R-1474 (Blc. Consul Greig x Lc. Anne Walker)

Blc. Consul Greig produces heavy orange petals and sepals. The petals measure  $2\frac{1}{2}$ " x  $7\frac{1}{2}$ ", of very good form. The orange-red-bronze lip is tipped with rose, and marked with gold eyes and veining in the throat. Previous bloom record is very good on this outstanding flower.

The Canary yellow petals and sepals of the Anne Walker are of good form and heavy substance. Petals measure  $2\frac{1}{16}$ " x  $6\frac{1}{8}$ "; dorsal sepal measures  $1\frac{5}{16}$ " x  $3\frac{1}{4}$ ". The funnel type lip of Beetroot purple is moderately ruffled. Heavy, clear golden-yellow veining marks the throat, in the absence of eyes. This Anne Walker has good bloom record and is parent of other crosses, among which is the Lc. Amber Glow which received an AM AOS on its first blooming at the National Capitol Show in Washington, D.C., November, 1952.

A yellow for the fall season is expected.

2  $\frac{1}{2}$ " pot - \$8.00 each

R-1325 (Lc. Corsair x Blc. Consul Greig)

The Lc. Corsair produces light orange petals and sepals of  $2\frac{1}{4}$ " x  $6\frac{1}{4}$ ", of good form and heavy texture. The lip is large, reddish-purple, and the throat is golden-orange. Bloom record since 1942 shows good and very good. Parent of three other crosses.

The Consul Greig produces golden yellow-bronze sepals and petals of good form and heavy texture. The golden lip is veined with orange and is tipped with reddish-bronze. The plant has good bloom record and has been used as parent in three other crosses.

A winter yellow of very fine quality is expected.

1  $\frac{3}{4}$ " pot - \$3.00 each

2  $\frac{1}{2}$ " pot - \$8.00 each
